I'm Moving Back to Mars Fred Wooldridge,2005-11-01 Self-discovery ripens and comes to full fruition for Ken Ferries in the autumn of his life. The events that lead him into the realization of his powerful psychic awareness are often poignant and highly charged emotionally. Ken will encounter the prickly emotions and the suspicions of a small town caught up in the gripping murder of a wealthy rancher's wife. Loss of laid back rural innocence has made its claim on the lives of the people of Rosewood, Texas. It has forever changed the life of Ken Ferries, who will never view the course of life the same again. In this small community, he will come to understand fully the old expression that there are more things in heaven and on earth than this world dream's possible.

Corpus Linguistics in North America Rita C. Simpson-Vlach,John M. Swales,2001 Highlights from the first Corpus

Linguistics conference in North America

Teaching and Language Corpora Anne Wichmann, Steven Fligelstone, 2014-06-11 Corpora are well-established as a resource for language research; they are now also increasingly being used for teaching purposes. This book is the first of its kind to deal explicitly and in a wide-ranging way with the use of corpora in teaching. It contains an extensive collection of articles by corpus linguists and practising teachers, covering not only the use of data to inform and create teaching materials but also the direct exploitation of corpora by students, both in the study of linguistics in general and in the acquisition of proficiency in individual languages, including English, Welsh, German, French and Italian. In addition, the book offers practical information on the sources of corpora and concordances, including those suitable for work on non-roman scripts such as Greek and Cyrillic.

This book provides a valuable, comprehensive, and up-to-date source of information on this rapidly evolving technology.

Data Mining and Computational Intelligence Abraham Kandel, Mark Last, Horst Bunke, 2010-10-21 Many business decisions are made in the absence of complete information about the decision consequences. Credit lines are approved without knowing the future behavior of the customers; stocks are bought and sold without knowing their future prices; parts are manufactured without knowing all the factors affecting their final quality; etc. All these cases can be categorized as decision making under uncertainty. Decision makers (human or automated) can handle uncertainty in different ways. Deferring the decision due to the lack of sufficient information may not be an option, especially in real-time systems. Sometimes expert rules, based on experience and intuition, are used. Decision tree is a popular form of representing a set of mutually exclusive rules. An example of a two-branch tree is: if a credit applicant is a student, approve; otherwise, decline. Expert rules are usually based on some hidden assumptions, which are trying to predict the decision consequences. A hidden assumption of the last rule set is: a student will be a profitable customer. Since the direct predictions of the future may not be accurate, a decision maker can consider using some information from the past. The idea is to utilize the potential similarity between the patterns of the past (e.g., most students used to be profitable) and the patterns of the future (e.g., students will be profitable).
